

SECOND SECTION

We cannot tell you the things which we have seen and heard. Acts 4:30

Dr. A. G. Hudson of Memphis has started getting the GCW as a gift of the Stanley Browns of Grenada. Dr. Hudson's folks were oldtime residents of the Graysport area. Unless the dam got all of the Hudson old holdings, the doctor still owns part of the old estate there.

Who remembers Edna Semmes? Well, she is Mrs. A. P. Moore of Birmingham now and she is getting the GCW for a year as a gift of Mrs. Raphael Semmes. Welcome to our list, Edna.

Alex Murphy called in to remind me that the 'Clark' who used to dish out Washington pies for the elder Mr. Cuff was named Clark Hughes. Mr. Cuff used to sell thick ham sandwiches for a nickel, back in the good old days of yore.

Ralph Phillips now of Clarksdale brought in his three dollars Thursday and made us very happy, just like Mrs. Sing Holland of Oxford did when she brought in her $3 for a Christmas gift renewal for her mother, Miss Tommie in North Little Rock.

Now, Jarvis, don't send in any money this year, as the Argusines have already arranged for the renewal of your paper going up to you in Missouri.

Among those who gave the GCW as a Christmas present was Edna Campbell, who sent the GCW to her uncle, Harry Long, whom we used to call 'Handsome' Harry, now in Foxworth, Mississippi, wherever that is.

Mr. F. L. Barrier, who recently sold out his drug store in Itta Bena has been over here helping Mr. Bristor in his drug store during the Christmas rush. He, of course, knew Dr. L. H. Hightower, and also knew Alex Whitaker who formerly preached there.

It's been a long time since any barbers collaborated, but Harry Wilson and Hamp Weir collaborated in getting up around a hundred dollars as a Christmas present for one of their wore-out contemporaries, Jim Weed, and this was a most kindly act for a darn good fellow, old Jim Weed.

I am trying to get one of the county's best historians, Will Ed Boushe,

BROTHER AND SISTER VISIT CHILDHOOD HOME—

Dr. Frank H. Smith of Greenwood and his sister, Mrs. Olive Smith Jennings of Grenada are pictured in the above lovely photograph on the porch of the stately old home where they were born and which their grandfather built in 1850.

This home on Main St., now owned by Mrs. Sam Williamson, was built by their grandfather, John E. Moore, architect, with the help of slave labor.

Mr. Moore came to Grenada in 1829, by ox wagon from Pittsylvania County, Va., with his wife.

The timbers in this house were hand hewed with a broad ax and all joints were mortised and cut together with wooden pins. The columns in front are solid stone and were shipped from France via New Orleans, the Mississippi, Yazoo and Yalobusha Rivers to Grenada by boat before there was a railroad in Grenada.

Dr. Smith was born in this home on Sept. 23, 1868 and Mrs. Jennings on Sept. 23, 1870. (Photo by Granberry) whose fine articles dotted the GCW there my grandfather Dick Hall a few years back to dig out from the county records, the story of Grenada County's court house. In looking thru the proceedings of the supervisors in December, 1823, I saw art' and that's all he needs.

We don't know just what is in New Orleans and how the market is for cattle, but we do know that the price of cattle in New Orleans and Texas is higher than it is here. We do know that the cattle market is better than it is here. We do know that the cattle market is better than it is here.

In looking for things to tax, do you ever think why cattle, in which so much money is invested, are not taxed in Mississippi? Cattle no longer constitute an important industry in this state but cattle raising is a major industry here. One man puts his money in a stock of pools, another in cattle. Why tax the first, exempt the second?

Tommie Davis played the part of Santa Claus to B. K. Hamlin Sunday when he sent the fine cat a bunch of cooked chicken scraps.

I just don't know whether we have had good Christmas business or bad.

LONG AND SHORT OF IT.—

The big one is Earle Tatum, Chief of Police at University; the little one is Junior Wallace Sherwood of Grenada. Tatum also, is a native of Grenada and once served Grenada as City Marshal.

No Gifts
under this
"Christmas Tree"

The pipes, wheels and gauges in this illustration make up what oilmen call a "Christmas Tree." To the oil and gas industry it is the symbol of a successfully completed producing well.

Perhaps to the oilman who named it, or to a modern artist, this device looks like a Christmas tree, but there the similarity ends. In contrast to the yuletide gifts associated with conventional Christmas trees, the oil and gas industry usage of this term brings to mind the calculated risk of private capital in great sums against high odds — more than 20 to one in Mississippi — in the search for new oil and natural gas reservoirs.

Nature's "gifts" — if oil and gas can be called gifts — are far from free. The "Christmas Trees" which cap producing wells in 29 Mississippi counties are surface indications of the continuing battle with Nature in which the oil and gas industry, having invested over one billion dollars in its Mississippi operations, currently is spending nearly $60 million per year in this state to find and develop these mineral resources... production of which is so vital to Mississippi's economic progress and the nation's military security.

The Light that shines in Children's eyes at Christmas...

Our hearts wax warmer and our lives gain richer meaning in the light that shines in children's eyes at Christmas.

Their bright faces reflect our success in furthering the well being and happiness of our families and our communities. Achievement finds its richest reward as we gather with our loved ones on Christmas morning.

This year we are especially grateful that our families may celebrate Christmas free from immediate fear of war's hazards and heartaches. True, our days remain troubled and anxious. But we accept with gratitude the lighting of every candle showing the way toward peace.

It is our fervent wish that our friends and neighbors throughout Mid-America may find renewed faith this Christmas in our ability to build a happy and peaceful world for our children.

RODNEY DEFENBAUGH, JR. ACCIDENTLY KILLED

While Hunting Near Graysport

We cannot tell speak the things which we have seen and heard. Act 420.

Ward 39, Vets Hospital
Jackson, Dec. 29, 1953

Well, I am down 'home' here in the vets hospital getting what they call checked-up, and, so far, I have had a grand time and have seen a number of old friends and, as a matter of fact, have been assigned as a patient of Dr. Frank Hays, a young Grenada doctor known by everyone back home. 'Sonny', as everyone used to call him, has gained the respect and confidence of his associates here and seems to enjoy the goodwill and confidence of his patients. The 'old' doctor, formerly in this ward, who was Dr. Boggs appears to be sick, and, so far, has not done what the Savior said in the Bible, 'Physician, heal thyself.'

As usual, everyone is most kind, courteous and helpful to the patients.

What with no ads on this, the last issue of the old year, and with Andrew, as usual wanting to go fishing or to kill some poor duck, the GCW is getting out early this week so that what might be called a 'legal' issue can be mailed out so as to be delivered on Thursday instead of having the world wait in great impatience until Saturday.

Right next to me on a cot is a Guntharpe from Booneville. Older folks in Grenada remember an Alf Guntharpe who married Sam Garner's aunt. I imagine this fellow here and Alf were distant kin. The patient here is James L. Guntharpe of Booneville and he spent several hours yesterday reading three back issues of the GCW I brought with me.

In an old issue of Life I was reading a 'heading' thing yesterday. It seems that a Sacramento merchant, seeking to help in the drive to rid his community and county of old death traps in the form of ice boxes, offered a 20 lb. turkey for every door from a used ice box. In the enthusiasm to get twenty pound turkeys folks brought in twice as many doors as the merchant had turkeys. Junkmen of Sacramento started selling old doors, subsequently to be exchanged for turkeys, at a dollar fifty each.

When you finish with the so-called routine check here you don't have many secrets left. At this moment I have been here 24 hours. So far they have got to blood, urine and blood pressure, temperature and pulse. I have been to the dental clinic but, as I left my teeth back home, nobody could tell much about them. In a few minutes I am scheduled for X-Ray. God knows what next.

There is not much I can say to Rodney and Grace Defenbaugh about the loss of their fine boy, but to say something both simple and sincere: I'm mighty sorrowful for you good folks in your great loss.

The numerals, '1-64' on the little colored slip on YOUR paper mean, simply, that you are out with this issue, that is the first month in the year, 1954.

Dr. Bernstein, a diabetic specialist from Jackson, just dropped by to check up on me. He seems to visit patients here periodically, but has his own office and practice in the city.

In contrast with the old methods in the VA hospitals, they 'get going' on you right away now. I remember back 20 years ago when I went to the old Lamar vets hospital in Memphis, I would be kept in the receiving ward for 2-3 days before they found out whether I had TB or leprosy, then finally checked up and assigned to a ward. But I had high blood pressure and was assigned to the ear, eye, nose and throat ward. I don't recall anything ever having been done for me. And that's the reason that the records there show, after 20 years, that I am still AWOL from Lamar.

They keep you busy all the time here. I hardly had the last item in type until I had to go to X-Ray where I got shot. Every secret you have when you enter here belongs to the government before you leave.

Final Date For Reporting Soil Conservation Practices

Mr. Ben McElwraith, chairman of the Grenada County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announces that January 16, 1954, is the final date for reporting performance under the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program. Mr. McElwraith further states that most farmers who have secured approvals of assistance for carrying out soil conservation practices have not reported performance on these practices. He urges that all farmers who have carried out an approved soil conservation practice under the 1953 program report such practices not later than January 15, 1953, otherwise, the assistance cannot be granted.

Back-Handed Slap At OTHER Paper

Last Thursday afternoon was a hub so far as business was concerned. Local business places were in the habit of closing their places on Thursday afternoons but a notice was inserted in the local paper that the stores would be open. It seems some saw this notice while others did not. And it was evident that many shoppers failed to see it. It was quiet as a black cat in a grave yard.

She paid a $20 fine and court costs.

Senate Candidate Tennessee Senator & Mrs. Semmes

After seriously considering the matter for several months, I have decided to become a candidate for the United States Senate in the Democratic primary to be held in August 1954. This decision has not been haphazardly made but is based on a careful and prayerful analysis of the present national situation and a sincere desire to be of further and greater service to the people of Mississippi.

Faced with the long overdue task of working out a program that would as nearly as possible afford equal educational opportunities for both white and Negro youth but also between the richer and poorer areas of our State, we feel that the movements of integration are not only for the betterment of the Negro but also for the betterment of the white.

As a private citizen as a Major in the United States Army, as Major of Laurel and as your present Lieutenant Governor, I have devoted myself to public service. I hope before the people of Mississippi in this important campaign with a sincere belief that there is an ever present need for men of vigor, honor and integrity in Government. I will in an active, aggressive and clean campaign let my views on domestic and foreign problems be known to the people of Mississippi.

I am 40 years of age, and as I enter this race, I offer to the people of Mississippi my vital energies and my faith in the destiny of our State and Nation. I have no affiliations or connections which would cause me to be partial or unfair in any decisions on Legislation affecting our State and Nation. I can and will cooperate fully with the other members of the Mississippi Congressional Delegation in an effort to work and to set in motion the machinery of the State and Nation. I by which the public school system of Mississippi should be destroyed. We felt and now feel that such a drastic step is premature and entirely unjustified in view of existing conditions and circumstances. We feel that now more than at any time in recent history is a time for calm, sober and mature deliberation and action and that we should not as a State hasten or be stampeded in abolishing our public school system when we do not in fact know what the result of such a move would be, nor whether it would in fact accomplish the purpose intended. In addition to this, the unpleasant truth is unfortunately that certain groups in the State would use our present segregation problem as a means of the abolition of the public school system so as to avoid and evade the necessary taxes that will be required to finance a dual system.

We feel that now more than at any time in recent history is a time for calm, sober and mature deliberation and action and that we should not as a State hasten or be stampeded in abolishing our public school system when we do not in fact know what the result of such a move would be, nor whether it would in fact accomplish the purpose intended. In addition to this, the unpleasant truth is unfortunately that certain groups in the State would use our present segregation problem as a means of the abolition of the public school system so as to avoid and evade the necessary taxes that will be required to finance a dual system.

Little Stories Easy on the Heart Strings.

Pat O'Donnell of Ft. Worth has the longest paper route in the country. Pat is a breakman on the T & P Railroad and having learned of a little girl who lives near her house, gifts and funny papers. As we passed there the other day we saw the little girl leaning on a swinging gate waiting for the bundle Pat O'Donnell threw toward her, as the train roared by. When asked about it Pat said he buys papers and things for about 14 isolated families on his route and throws them from the train each trip.

Fear Not . . . we are told in many places yet all have fears of many different things. Once a man became lost in a strange and unfamiliar country and suffered much agony with fear. Finally he met a "Shimpse" of a man coming toward him, and he was gripped with fear for his life, but he steeled himself for a finish fight and watched. Soon the other man came closer and the lost man shouted with joy as he recognized his own brother who was searching for him.

TAKING THE DRUDGERY OUT OF CLEANING

And when it comes to fall cleaning, your vacuum cleaner (with all of its attachments) really steps into the spotlight. You don't have to assemble a truckload of brooms, mops, dust cloths and what-have-you to do a thorough seasonal cleaning job in your home—not if you really use your vacuum cleaner the way it should be used for ceiling-to-floor cleaning!

Here are a few helpful hints to guide you on the way:

Keep overhead lights clean; you'll get better light if you do. And the dusting job is easy, no need for a step-ladder, if you use the dusting brush attachments of your cleaner. The same brush is handy for cleaning shades on floor and table lamps, too.

Use the wall brush to clean walls and ceilings, working in straight up-and-down lines with as nearly even pressure as height will permit.

Dusting Brush is Versatile

The dusting brush comes back into the picture for cleaning books and bookshelves, metal and wood furniture—and window sills. It does a wonderful job on mattresses and hard-to-clean bedsprings, too.

For upholstered furniture, you have an upholstery nozzle attachment, and also a crevice tool for cleaning out deep corners of upholstered chairs and couches.

And while you have the crevice tool handy, use it to get dirt out of radiators, too.

That should bring you down to floor level on the cleaning schedule. So get out the floor and wall brush again to clean all uncarpeted floor surfaces—including kitchen and other linoleum-covered floors (before you wax them),

And finally, give your rugs and carpets a thorough going-over with the rug nozzle of your cleaner.

All of this is not to imply that your vacuum cleaner will do every bit of the fall cleaning for you; here are always walls to wash, floors to wax, windows to clean, curtains to change.

But using a vacuum cleaner and its attachments to do all the jobs they're designed to do will take much of the drudgery out of the seasonal clean-up chores.

And you might even have enough energy left to get out of the house to buy one of those new fall hats!

NUPITAL VOWS SAID IN BAPTIST CHURCH CEREMONY

In a beautiful candlelight ceremony on Monday, December 21 at the First Baptist Church, Miss Juanita Joyce Todd became the bride of Mr. Wayne Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Black. The vows were said at five thirty in the afternoon, with Rev. John Landrum officiating, using the impressive double ring ceremony.

Deep green woodwardia formed the background for the lighted tapers glowing in wrought iron candelabra entwined with smilax. Graceful princess baskets held large arrangements of pink and white stock.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. John Griffis Hardy at the organ and Miss Lennie Sharp Ricks, soloist. Miss Ricks sang "Through The Years" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding march and recessional from Wagner, was played.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Clinton Sims of Tupelo, was radiant in her wedding gown of white shadowed nylon over taffeta. The bodice fashioned with a Peter Pan collar, was sleeveless and joined at the waist line to a ballerina length skirt. She wore a matching bolero with tiny cap sleeves. Her costume sash of pink satin matched her pink kid wedding slippers and pink gauntlets. She carried a white Bible surmounted by a white orchid held in a cluster of lilies of the valley and cascade ribbons. Her veil of illusion was finger-tip length and fell from a small half hat of white satin sprinkled with rhinestones.

The attractive maid of honor, Miss Jamie Aycock, was attired in a ballerina length frock of pink net over satin fashioned with a strapless bodice, buffant skirt and stole and tiny hat of matching net. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations tied with pink satin streamers.

God in Christ

Lesson for January 3, 1954

IT IS easier for some people to believe in icicles than to believe in God. That's true. You will hardly find anybody except savages in the hot belt along the equator who won't believe in icicles. These winter days you can perhaps see them for yourself. But many people believe in icicles who don't believe in God. In a way this is not surprising. An icicle is right there before your eyes, you see it being made, you know what it is made of. But God is not before your eyes, you can't see him made and you can't say what he is made of except "Spirit" and that isn't nearly as easy to understand as plain water and ice. It would be dishonest not to admit it—it is harder to believe in God than to believe in little things.

The Living Word

Now God knows that. We can say, without irreverence, that God is faced with a kind of dilemma. If he lets things take their natural course, most men will not believe in him, and that will be bad for them. But if he so to speak bursts on mortal men in his full glory, no human mind could endure it.

Suppose a very curious and skeptical person who did not believe in atoms because he had never seen one, insisted on a close view of an atomic explosion? He would be vaporized before he knew what hit him. A full view, so to speak, of the Infinite and Omnipotent God, would be insupportable by our small minds. It is the glory of God that he has solved this dilemma. He, the Unreadable, has translated himself into the life of man. He, the Indescribable has "become flesh" as John puts it—has become the Christ who can be described. He who is infinitely beyond us has come to live beside us. The God who dwells in Eternity's silence has spoken in many "forms and fragments" in ages past, but now has spoken the perfect Word in Christ. When the church calls Christ the "Word" of God we mean that Christ is what God has to say.

Concern

As has often been said, it is more helpful, and just as true, to say that God is like Christ as that Christ is like God. Christ, we may say, is the knowable, the believable God. God apart from Christ is like an inscription left on a great rock in an inaccessible desert, an inscription in an unknown tongue. God in Christ is written in our own language. It has been said (with pardonable exaggeration) that Christ is the only God the Christian knows. Surely this much the Christian church has always believed: that any notions of God that are out of line with what we know of Jesus are out of line with truth. Now there are many things we want to know about God, and some of these things we really do not need to know. But some things we desperately do need to know—everything hangs on it.

One question is this: Does the high God have any concern for, or concern with, the affairs of our little planet? Is he so great that our prayers never reach him, or if they do, give him no concern? Jesus is God's answer to that question. Everything human interested Jesus. Sad things like funerals, glad events like weddings—people's ordinary problems and their great crises, wherever people were, however obscure and "unimportant," there Jesus of Nazareth was concerned. We cannot believe in Christ as God's Word and still fancy an indifferent God.

Power

Another thing that we seriously want to know, is whether God has real power; and if so, what kind it is and how he uses it. There is a notion abroad, strange as it seems, that God is not really the ruler of all, but a sort of candidate for the throne of the universe; a celestial "Bonnie Prince Charlie" who is doing the best he can to gain control but who so far has not succeeded. If we understand and believe that God is like Christ, we can believe that he is in charge of every situation. Men called Jesus "Master" and with good reason. God is master of his universe. And yet we also see that Christ exerted his power in different ways. (More of this in later lessons in John.) He did not act on men in the manner of a lightning bolt.

EXECUTRIS'S Notice To Creditors

Letters Testamentary having been granted by the Chancery Court of Grenada County, Mississippi, on the 22nd day of December, 1953, to the undersigned, as Executrix of the last Will and Testament and of the Estate of Mrs. Mary Phelan Brown, deceased, notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against said Estate to have same probated and registered with the Clerk of said Court within six months, or they will say, without irreverence, that God is faced with a kind of dilemma. If he lets things take their natural course, most men will not believe in him, and that will be bad for them. But if he so to speak bursts on mortal men in his full glory, no human mind could endure it.

Suppose a very curious and skeptical person who did not believe in atoms because he had never seen one, insisted on a close view of an atomic explosion? He would be vaporized before he knew what hit him. A full view, so to speak, of the Infinite and Omnipotent God, would be insupportable by our small minds. It is the glory of God that he has solved this dilemma. He, the Unreadable, has translated himself into the life of man. He, the Indescribable has "become flesh" as John puts it—has become the Christ who can be described. He who is infinitely beyond us has come to live beside us. The God who dwells in Eternity's silence has spoken in many "forms and fragments" in ages past, but now has spoken the perfect Word in Christ. When the church calls Christ the "Word" of God we mean that Christ is what God has to say.

As has often been said, it is more helpful, and just as true, to say that God is like Christ as that Christ is like God. Christ, we may say, is the knowable, the believable God. God apart from Christ is like an inscription left on a great rock in an inaccessible desert, an inscription in an unknown tongue. God in Christ is written in our own language. It has been said (with pardonable exaggeration) that Christ is the only God the Christian knows. Surely this much the Christian church has always believed: that any notions of God that are out of line with what we know of Jesus are out of line with truth. Now there are many things we want to know about God, and some of these things we really do not need to know. But some things we desperately do need to know—everything hangs on it.

One question is this: Does the high God have any concern for, or concern with, the affairs of our little planet? Is he so great that our prayers never reach him, or if they do, give him no concern? Jesus is God's answer to that question. Everything human interested Jesus. Sad things like funerals, glad events like weddings—people's ordinary problems and their great crises, wherever people were, however obscure and "unimportant," there Jesus of Nazareth was concerned. We cannot believe in Christ as God's Word and still fancy an indifferent God.

Another thing that we seriously want to know, is whether God has real power; and if so, what kind it is and how he uses it. There is a notion abroad, strange as it seems, that God is not really the ruler of all, but a sort of candidate for the throne of the universe; a celestial "Bonnie Prince Charlie" who is doing the best he can to gain control but who so far has not succeeded. If we understand and believe that God is like Christ, we can believe that he is in charge of every situation. Men called Jesus "Master" and with good reason. God is master of his universe. And yet we also see that Christ exerted his power in different ways. (More of this in later lessons in John.) He did not act on men in the manner of a lightning bolt.
